

IIM-C to train civil servants

Zeeshan Jawed
@timesgroup.com

Kolkata: Indian Institute of Management Calcutta will collaborate with capacity building commission, government of India to design and execute training programmes for the country's civil servants and draw up a comprehensive strategy of innovative management development training for civil services at multiple levels.

Uttam Kumar Sarkar, director of IIM Calcutta on Thursday signed a statement of intent with the capacity building commission, for knowledge partnership.

In the past too, IIM Calcutta has been instrumental in imparting training to civil servants and educators on modern innovative management development. Last year the education department of Bengal tied up with IIM Calcutta for a workshop with the heads of government schools. "Our collaboration with the capacity building commission is another instance of our commitment to public good as an eminent institution of management education in the country. IIM Calcutta will lend its expertise to the design and execution of training programmes for our country's civil servants and support them through enhanced learning competences in their efforts of effective governance," said Uttam Kumar Sarkar, director, IIM Calcutta.

COLLABORATION