IIM Calcutta, on the other hand, dropped its ranking by one place and now stands fourth. The top two institutions – IIM Ahmedabad and IIM Bangalore managed to retain their spot but their scores have gone down.

Five Indian Institutes of Technology (IITs) are among the list of top 20 management institutions but three of them have gone down in rankings. While IITs are often considered institutes of technical education, over the years, they have topped NIRF rankings in other disciplines as well, especially in Management. IIT Delhi, best among IITs for Management, now stands at fifth place. Last year, it was fourth. IIT Bombay has improved its Management ranking to 10th from last year's 11th.

IIT Kharagpur, Madras and Roorkee are at 14th, 15th and 18th ranks, respectively. It is an improvement in the case of IIT Roorkee which was 19th last year but IIT Kharagpur (previously 12th) and IIT Madras (previously 10th) have dropped their positions in this category.
